Assess Costs of Waiving Business Tax

Recommend not waiving Business Tax for Amnesty Units, instead encourage applicants to apply for the existing Financial Hardship Exemption

Business Tax for Residential Landlords: $200.85/year
(1-2 residential units)

Current Financial Hardship Exemption provides waiver of business tax for those who meet either of the following criteria:

- (1) Low revenue generating business with gross receipts below two times the poverty level
- (2) Limited household income with adjusted gross income below four times the poverty level

Typical rents for ADU units would qualify for Financial Hardship Exemption:

2x Poverty $24,980

Max Rent Per Month to Qualify	$2,081
-------------------------------	---------

Average ADU Rents in South Bay ~$1,850*

Additional Analysis

(1) Third Party Inspectors

- City has the ability to hire Third Party Inspectors
- Inspectors must report Health and Safety concerns only
- Inspectors can support other phases of program (e.g. pre-applications, plan review)

(2) ADU Inspection Only

- May instruct inspectors to focus on ADU only (with exception of Life and Safety)

(3) Financial Resources

- No Federal, state or non-profit resources for Amnesty Units
- Programs target other reconstructions needs (e.g. post disaster, elderly or low income)
- Other municipalities suggest existing financial instruments (renovation loan, home equity, etc.)

(4) Building Code “Eras”

- 1952 Uniform Building Code (UBC) - built up to 1964
- 1973 UBC - built up to 1975
- 2001 California Building Code (CBC)- built until 2007
- 2019 California Residential Code (CRC)
